Food Contracts With Canada Hinge on Talks

Success in Dollar Conference Will Mean Renewal of Orders

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 (CP)—Informed sources today said the Washington dollar talks next month will decide whether the United Kingdom's multi-million-dollar food contracts with Canada will be renewed in 1950.

President Hits Out At Gloom

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—President Truman said today he expects good results from the British-American-Canadian financial conference which begins here Saturday.

The President made this statement at a press conference in an apparent effort to dispel the gloom and predictions of failure that surround the forthcoming talks.

The Three-Power meeting has been called to determine ways of checking the growing British financial crisis and to map a program for expanding trade generally among the Western Powers.

Truman also made it clear he expects Britain and the United States to go into the meeting without thought of bickering and name-calling over who is responsible for Britain's plight.

Answering a question, he said he believes the recommitments that have been tossed back and forth across the Atlantic have been confined entirely to the newspapers. There had been no recommitments between the British and American Governments.

The head of the British group of technicians, Sir Henry Wilson, maintained Truman's optimism by telling reporters "We are all optimistic."

B-36 Inquiry Explodes As Critic Admits Wrong

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—The B-36 bomber investigation blew up today with a dramatic bang as a navy critic of the billion-dollar deal confessed he was all wrong, and a House of Representatives committee exonerated United States defense officials of any fraud, collusion or dishonesty.

Weeks of rumors and charges of political chicanery were spouted off the books with startling suddenness when:

1. A suspended navy official, Cedric Worth, who started the whole thing with a sensational anonymous memorandum, admitted he had made a "great error."

2. The House Armed Services committee voted unanimously that its weeks of hearings had found no evidence to "support the insinuation that fraud, influence, collusion, corruption, dishonesty, or favoritism had any part in the B-36 procurement program." These were the words of Chairman Fred Vinson (Dem. Cal.), which the members quickly endorsed.

Voicing with Vinson was Representative James Van Zandt (Rep. Pa.) who had touched off the inquiry with a speech in the House calling for an investigation of "disturbing reports" concerning Defense Secretary Louis Johnson, Air Secretary Stuart Symington and Floyd Odium, financier whose Atlas Corporation controls the company making the B-36.

The high-flying super-bombers, counted upon to deliver the atom bomb to any enemy in case of war, are costing more than a billion dollars. The charges include: (1) That the plane is obsolete; (2) That Odium made great campaign gifts to the Truman camp last year; (3) That Symington might quit to take a big job under Odium.

Ship Altered to Fire Guided Missiles

The U.S.S. Norton Sound, first naval ship to be altered for firing guided missiles and rockets, is pictured as she launched one of the newly developed "Skyhook" balloons used to probe the upper atmosphere with cosmic ray detecting instruments. The Norton Sound has been conducting a research program for a month in the Pacific south of Oahu. Last March, off the coast of Peru, the Norton Sound fired two Aerobee rockets one of which reached an altitude of 65 miles.

Says Tito Prepares For Counter Attack

BELGRADE, Aug. 25 (INS)—A Belgrade informant predicted tonight that Marshal Tito soon will counter-attack Russia in the Communist family quarrel by placing the whole issue before the United Nations Security Council.

This highly-informed and usually reliable informant told International News Service:

"It is anticipated that Yugoslavia very soon will place before the Security Council of the United Nations the question of the attacks, slanders and lies launched against her 14 months ago by the Communist Information Bureau (Cominform) countries led by the Soviet Union."

Russia in a bitter note last Saturday threatened to take "more effective measures" against Yugoslavia.

The informant said that if the United Kingdom had not been experiencing dollar difficulties, preliminary negotiations towards completion of the bacon, eggs and cheese contracts would have been started long ago.

U.S. Working On Missile For Bombers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—Dr. Carl T. Compton said tonight that the United States is developing an "exceedingly important" guided missile which the B-36 can use to protect itself against speedy jet fighters.

Compton, chairman of the Defense Department's research and development board, spoke in a broadcast with Sumner T. Pike, commissioner of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

He described as exceedingly important the "air-to-air" missile, "which may well become the principal artillery of air combat."

The speed of jet fighters gives them both an offensive and defensive advantage over the larger and slower bombers, he said.

"But if the bombers are armed with missiles which can be launched against these fighters at considerable range, and if the missiles automatically steer themselves toward the attacker, then again we have an improved counter-measure to protect the bomber against the improved attack."

Compton described a type he called the "surface-to-surface" missile. He said it is equivalent to super long-range artillery. It may be fired from shipboard against an enemy ship, or from land against enemy troop concentrations, supply depots or factories.

Severe Hurricane Feared by Florida

Erratic Tempest Reported Approaching, Gaining Force

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 25 (INS)—Hurricane warnings were ordered at midnight tonight for the Florida coast from Vero Beach to Miami and weather bureau officials said the erratic tropical tempest was "increasing in force and may become severe."

In ordering the warnings, the Miami Weather Bureau said indications were that the storm would approach the Southeast Florida Coast in 18 to 24 hours.

Earlier northeast storm warnings were raised along Florida's East Coast tourist mecca from Melbourne to Key West in advance of the widely-dispersed Atlantic tempest.

At 11 p.m. (E.S.T.) the Miami Weather Bureau reported the hurricane was centered near Cal Island in the Bahamas, 300 miles south-southeast of Miami.

Southwest Florida was ordered to take preliminary precautions and stand-by for possible hurricane warnings early tomorrow.

The weather station at Cat Island reported winds of 25 miles an hour at 9:30 p.m., as the tropical storm boomed over.

Earlier aircraft gave the intensity at 100 miles an hour or more. Storm forecasters in Miami said the hurricane is increasing in size and force as it swings toward the mainland.

Weathermen predicted the hurricane will reach the vicinity of Nassau in the Bahamas by 9 a.m. Friday and winds will begin increasing.

Californians Battle

Raging Fire

BAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 25 (INS)—Thousands of weary fire fighters tonight continued to battle the raging forest fire that already has destroyed 7,500 acres of thick underbrush and trees and thousands of livestock and wild life.

Firefighters planned to set off back-firing in an attempt to keep the blaze from the Cleveland National Forest.

The fire started early in the week at the community of De Lux on the edge of the National Forest.

"Snoopy," 650-pound heifer, is shown in wirephoto transmitted to Colonist last night as she waits patiently in deep silo pit she entered through a 20-inch opening. Snoopy will have to wait until level of corn in silo has been brought up 12 feet to opening through which she dived. Meanwhile, she's eating heartily, and enjoying prospect of lots more food.

Addition to Corn Supply Will Free Heifer in Silo

OSCEOLA, Wis., Aug. 25 (INS). — "Snoopy," the mischievous heifer who became the second bovine of the season to investigate the inside of a silo, never had it so good.

Oblivious to the gawking gaze of the curious, the rapid fire stream of suggestions on how to get "Snoopy" out of her prison, she ate everything in sight as she languished at the bottom of the partly-filled silo—12 feet below ground.

And there was more food to come for the hungry heifer—lots more.

Farmer Everett Lampman, whose 13-year-old daughter, Charlene, owns "Snoopy," said today that he has decided that the most practical way to get the heifer out is to cut his corn early, fill the silo and raise "Snoopy" to the level of the 20 by 24-inch opening through which she originally squirmed.

WORRIED

One thing worried Lampman, he admitted. By then—in about two weeks he estimates—"Snoopy" may have eaten an well that she won't be able to squirm out.

But some busybody offered a practical suggestion to take care of that possibility. Lampman says if he finds "Snoopy" eating the corn at too great a rate, he'll muzzle her.

"Snoopy" plunged into the silo yesterday trying to escape Lampman's wrath when he caught her delicately and methodically chomping her way through his prize field of green corn.

To escape him she scurried into the barn.

Lampman closed the doors on her and "Snoopy" squirmed through the silo opening—the only way out of the barn.

FALL BROKEN

She dropped 12 feet, but her fall was broken by a ladder and she landed unhurt—and still hungry.

Farmer Lampman heard the crash and raced in just in time to see the dust settling.

He peered into the silo and "Snoopy's" big cow eyes twinkled back at him.

Judge Will Issue Ruling Today In Battle Over Air Agreement

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (CP). — Judge Edward M. Curran will rule tomorrow on the first phase of Colonial Airlines' attack on the Canadian-American agreement.

Colonial wants an order postponing a Civil Aeronautics Board hearing here on Trans-Canada Air Lines' request for a permit to fly non-stop between Montreal and New York.

The bilateral agreement, signed in Ottawa last June 4, gives Canada non-stop rights on that route. Colonial, arguing that the whole agreement is illegal, seeks a temporary injunction restraining the C.A.B. from studying T.C.A.'s application next Monday, as scheduled.

DOUBTS LEGALITY

Colonial also has launched injunction proceedings based on the constitutionality of the agreement, of which the T.C.A.-Colonial issue is only a part. The pact, classed as an executive agreement, does not require ratification by the Senate, Colonial says it should go to the Senate because it is, in effect, a treaty.

A panel of three judges is scheduled to rule on the constitutional phase of Colonial's agreement next month.

German Paper Defies Order

FRANKFURT, Aug. 25 (CP). — The German newspaper, Frankfurter Rundschau, today defied a court order to print a retraction of a headline. The paper said it will test "whether in Germany there is a free press."

The paper carried a front-page announcement of the court's order that unless the retraction is printed the paper will be heavily fined and its editor jailed.

The paper asserted the headline was a factual summary of a story quoting United States military government officials and announced it will not print a retraction. Its editors will appear in court today to contest the order.

The story in question quoted military government officials as criticizing findings of a State Government inquiry into the case of Fritz Dietz. Dietz, former head of the Hesse State food-rationing office, was cleared by the inquiry of using his official position for private profit.

The headline said: "Military Government Against Dietz Inquiry Report."

100 Jet Planes Ordered By Defence Department

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 (CP). — The Defence Department will pay $30,311,190 for the manufacture of 100 F-88 jet fighter planes by Canadair Limited of Montreal, Defence Minister Claxton announced today.

He said negotiations for the manufacture of the planes now have been completed and the first aircraft is expected for delivery by August, 1950.

The contract price of more than $30,000,000 includes manufacture of the airframe, airframe spars, flaps, tools, dies, sales tax, publications, ground handling equipment, royalties and other items.

It does not include engines, radio, armament and other special equipment to be provided from other sources.

The department gave this analysis of the total: Airframes (100) $19,029,000; airframe spare parts $1,902,900; production and machine tools $8,378,000; royalties, $825,000; publications and ground handling equipment, $475,290.

Costs quoted for the first 100 aircraft include many initial expenses connected with tooling up. Additional orders, if placed, would result in a lower unit cost, said the announcement.

The F-88, a single seater interceptor aircraft, is at present being introduced into use by the United States Air Force.

Censors Busy On Eve of Fair

TORONTO, Aug. 25 (CP). — Opening-day excitement ran through the big fair tonight, eve of the 70th Canadian National Exhibition.

A handful of officials were almost lost in the 22,000-capacity grandstand as they watched Olsen and Johnson Show run through the censors' preview. The censors were C.E. directors and representatives of City Council, including the show's arch-critic, Controller Allan A. Lamport, who thought last year's version of the Broadway comedians' extravaganza was un-Canadian and its humor not quite the thing for kiddies.

The fair gates open tomorrow at 8:00 a.m.—and the $35,000,000 worth of permanent buildings, filled with exhibits from throughout the world, will be thrown open at 9:30 a.m.

Vacuum Alexander, Governor General of Canada, will declare the exhibition officially open at 2:30 p.m.

Opinion is divided on whether the cuts will affect social services and defence spending. Some informed political sources said the economy drive will not be allowed to touch expenditures for the National Health Service or the armed forces. Another Government informant said the cradle-to-grave health program might have to be revised drastically should the Washington talks fall.

No actual dollars are spent on Britain's social services, but their cost helps keep taxes high. High taxes increase production costs, which in turn affect the price of export goods in the dollar market where Britain is striving for increased sales.

Canada and the Road to Collectivism

SINCE the Dominion elections there have been disturbing reports from Ottawa that governmental departments, far from introducing the postwar retrenchment for which the country has waited four years, are indulging in an orgy of expansion. Bureaucracy is booming as never before. The Government, already employing a larger staff than was needed at the peak of the war effort, appears to be setting about the creation of yet more jobs to be paid for by an overtaxed public.

The latest report is that in the near future four new Cabinet posts may be created. It is a good thing to know that the Dominion Government is taking a wider interest in Dominion-provincial relations, immigration, industrial expansion, tourist trade and other matters bearing on the development of the country; but does it take a flock of new departments and divisions of departments to do this? Past experience has shown how quickly each new departmental cell blossoms into a multitude of branches and bureaus each with a staff

that never seems to stop growing. The Civil Service forces of Canada today are more than three times as large as they were just one decade ago, with the Dominion Government spending nearly five times as much as it did before the war. Economists have estimated that government at all levels in Canada takes about twenty-five cents out of every dollar of national income. In terms of hours of work, something everyone can understand, that means that the average citizen has to work one week in every month to pay for his share of the cost of government.

Former President Herbert Hoover recently spoke of a parallel trend in the United States. "Along this road of spending," he said, "the government either takes over, which is socialism, or dictates institutional and economic life, which is fascism." Here is a warning to Canadians, too, that by their complacency in easy governmental spending they may be heedlessly driving down what Mr. Hoover termed "the back road to collectivism."

Traffic Concerns Everyone in the Community

IF Greater Victoria is to make a success of the traffic courtesy drive it will need to be a co-operative affair with the interest of every citizen engaged in the result. There will be little room for groups or individuals to hold off and snipe at the plan from the bleachers. Everybody's safety and everybody's courtesy are concerned. The chief task is to make traffic rules so well known here that the public, driving on foot, will subscribe to them uniformly and without relapse. Such an effort has been long overdue.

Far more important than the dollar in a "pledge" is the fact that one citizen has subscribed to an honest and sincere effort to improve traffic conditions all round, by starting with himself. The nominal contribution towards the cost of the campaign is voluntary, and no one will be forced to subscribe. On the other hand, things being what they are, help in the drive is needed, and if it is not everybody's help the result will be disappointing to say the least. One has only to put the question "Do you want traffic conditions to improve here?" and the answer suggests itself to all thinking individuals.

At the start of every such movement there is always inertia to be overcome. That phase will pass as more and more citizens understand the objective of the safety drive, and what it can do to make driving and walking in the Greater Victoria area more of a pleasure and considerably less of a hazard. Professional drivers have been the first to join the crusade, and that is a good recommendation of its worth to those who are on the road much of the time and know conditions as they exist.

Fishermen's Wharf Is Great Asset

WHEN the Dominion Government built the fishermen's floats at the foot of Erie Street it was providing a substantial asset to the port of Victoria, one which port authorities had requested. It is true that the full plan was not completed; that slipway and hoisting gear, repair shop and net-drying racks, were not provided. On the other hand it would be a thousand pities if this port lost sight of the value of the fishermen's wharf, and what with very little additional effort it could become. For here is safe anchorage closer to the fishing grounds than can be obtained at most other points on this coast.

While the Dominion has control over tidewater and deepsea harbor works, the city has a direct interest in the Inner Harbor. If a day and night watch are all that are needed at the fishermen's wharf to make it a going concern that service ought to be supplied, in a provisional way at any rate. The city could then take up with the Dominion the need of completing the fishermen's floats with their proper fittings and facilities, and bring forward the caretaking issue at the same time. Or perhaps on its own initiative the city could combine such a watch with harbor police or fire prevention services, if that proved practicable.

What should be borne in mind is that the Victoria fishermen's wharf is being used now by growing numbers of vessels from coastal fishing fleets, and this is the nucleus of quite an important trade. It would be foolish to let the opportunity fall between two stools over the issue of divided authority. If the community takes the initiative, Ottawa will surely finish the job; and there would be a permanent asset for this port.

On the Line

NEW YORK — Wonder why they don't kill Tito? Or have they let him go so far that they're afraid we might now stick up for the man whose fliers murdered five friendly United States airmen, and who bluntly informed the State Department that he would not pay indemnities?

They had no trouble knocking off Trotsky in Mexico when he said some of the things Tito is now saying. There rub out ex-General Walter Krivitsky just before the man was scheduled to say some harsh anti-Soviet things to a Senate committee.

And goodness only knows how many lesser fry they've killed, men and women who automatically became "traitors" by gingerly sampling some of the promised freedoms supposedly guaranteed by the ever-spreading "peoples democracy."

Then why not Tito? When he first got out of line, why didn't they call him to Moscow for consultations or a new row of medals and knock him off?

It was common talk in Belgrade a year ago that two clumsy attempts had been made on Tito's life. But M.V.D. pros could not have been involved. They can get any man they set out to kill, no matter how well he is guarded—and Tito is probably one of the two or three best-protected men in the world.

Since only Broadway and Washington columns are permitted to have direct telephone lines to the Kremlin, I will have to resort to speculation on the possible reasons why the axe hasn't fallen on a bloke whose words and deeds are eating a pretty serious hole in the Iron Curtain. To wit:

1. Maybe the Russians are waiting for us to build that $3,000,000 steel-processing plant for Tito, before moving in. It would come in handy. We'd do that and more to gain a curd and of thanks from a bum whose military genius and personal army wouldn't last two days against—say—Noire Dame's first team.

2. Maybe it is Tito's loud allegiance to Communism, or the independent form of that woodoo which he endorses, which is staying the bullet with his name on it. Every time they bawl him out in their rancid press, if that's the word, he usually defends himself by pointing to the way in which he conforms to the party line in most particulars, and how fine is that line. Good propaganda, even if slightly in reverse.

3. Maybe they're letting him sound off in the hope of convincing the West that they're not the police power they really are. He's doing them this much of a favor: every time he lets out a rant he makes the front pages of the world's free press—and shoves the shocking news of another Russian-inspired foray against China's millions back among the goitre-cure ads.

4. Maybe it's too late to bump him off. If they had done it a few months ago, not many countries in the West would have lifted an eyebrow in Tito's behalf. Nor, of course, mourned him. But today we read of "British concern" over the worsening of Soviet-Yugoslav relations. The French are "perturbed" over the situation—"perturbed" in Tito's behalf.

It is not impossible to envision a day in the near future when even we—who let Poland, Rumania, Hungary, China, Manchuria, Northern Korea, Albania and the others go down the drain with hardly an official "Tak tak"—will wrap ourselves in the folds of righteousness and tell Russia that any attack on our dear pal Tito will be regarded as an attack on something as sacred—say—as the general post-office in Wichita.

Not much doubt that what the man is getting away with must be preying on the minds of other puppeteers behind the curtain. A few stooges have sounded off with routine attacks on him. But the big guns, by and large, are pretty silent. The veteran German Communist leader, Karl-Hein Scholz, has now asked us and the British in Germany to recognize a splinter Communist party he wants to form.

Tito's continued good health and anti-Communist truculence in a land which must by nature be awarming with the trusted confederates of the Kremlin must be classed as mystery No. 1 of a tensely waiting world.

Pedestrians

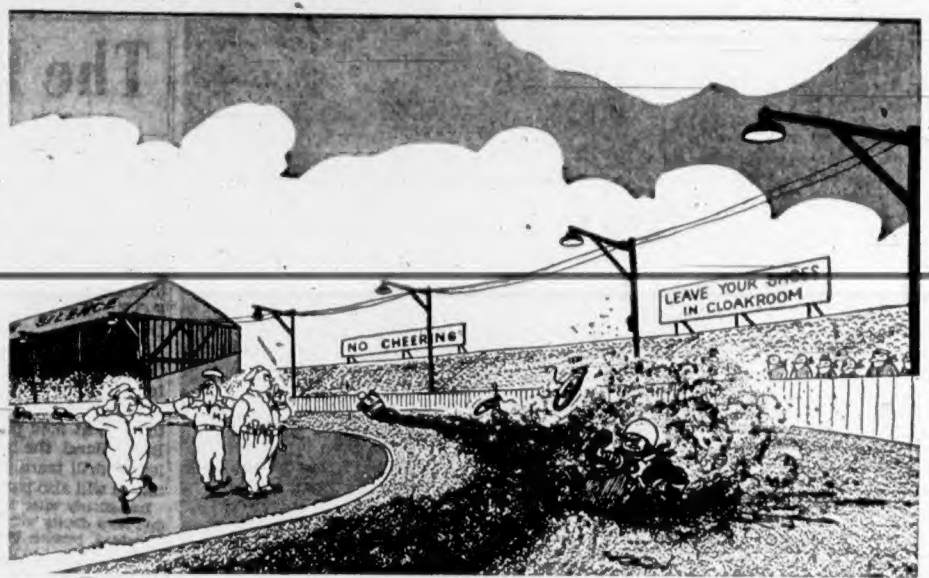

A BRITISH traffic expert says "Americans are better drivers than Britons, but the English are better pedestrians." And there is much in what the man says, particularly about pedestrians.

One has but to stand on any busy corner in any city on this continent to recognize what careless pedestrians we are. We will walk across the street between intersections; cross against the red light if traffic will permit; rush pell-mell up and down the sidewalk, with little thought of the convenience of others. In some of the larger United States cities, pedestrians are more orderly than in most Canadian cities but perhaps that is only because they have to be to stand any chance of survival.

People in Britain do more walking than we do. They have fewer automobiles. Down through the years they have evolved certain common sense rules for pedestrians. They are more leisurely and watch where they are going. Also they obey traffic regulations, which are for their safety as well as that of motorists.—Windsor Star.

Germany and Democracy

The writer was the first civilian newspaperwoman with the United States Army's Psychological Warfare Division in Germany and later was an organizer of the Military Government-sponsored German news agency, Dena.

By SYLVIA WIESS GLENN
North American Newspaper Alliance

SOUTH YARMOUTH, Mass.—Stating unequivocally that Germans have not yet become democratic, and that their democratization "is a long-term problem," retired General Lucius D. Clay, former American military governor for Germany, warns there can be no world peace unless the Western nations "provide security for Germany as well as against that country."

He also urges delaying Germany's admission to the Council of Europe "until the peoples of the countries which form the council are prepared to accept her as a democratic member." And he criticizes current proposals to make Germany a member of the council "by means of artificial invitation on high governmental level." At the same time, he cautions that nations of the Atlantic Pact and the Western Union must begin immediately "to visualize Germany's future in terms of world security interests."

In an exclusive interview here on Cape Cod, General Clay discounted the optimists who interpreted the August 14 election as an assurance that democracy had taken hold in Germany. But he indicated he is not so alarmed as are others by reports of a revival of rabid nationalism in Germany.

For the security of Germany, Clay felt, "We must look into the possibilities of a United Nations security force, Western Union security force, or an Atlantic Pact security force," rather than giving the Germans an army when Allied occupation-troops are withdrawn.

"For the Western Allies must today reckon with the prospects of Germany's unprotected borders when we leave there. If left unprotected, the Germans might find that, to survive, they would have to make some kind of alliance with the Russians."

The combination of "the technical skills of several million Germans and the power of the Russian hordes," Clay feared, would comprise "a formidable force to be reckoned with."

"I do not proclaim that the Germans have become a democratic people," he went on. "I do not think we can expect them to become a democratic people within four years, because they never enjoyed democracy before, except for the brief moment of the Weimar Republic, which existed in a period of desperate economic straits."

"Nevertheless, I do believe there is hope for a democracy in Germany. It has to be secured by helpful advice and encouragement and an indication that the democracy will be accepted as a friendly Germany."

The general listed five achievements which, he said, justified his confidence in German willingness to seek democracy:

1. The constitution of the new federal republic, which modified emergency powers of the chief executive and defined powers retained by individual states.

2. The character of the new German press in exercise of its right to criticize the government.

3. De-Nazification, "indicating willingness to undertake a most unpleasant task." (Clay maintained the fact that it was done at all had a great deal more significance than whether it was done well. He insisted military government had not imposed or required the Germans to adopt the program, but the Germans had voluntarily assumed the responsibility.)

4. Local governments have taken advantage of democratic processes in local councils to rid themselves of high-handed officials.

5. The people are exercising the right to vote.

Clay did not see in the recent German election any great demonstration of democracy, other than the people's exercise of their franchise. He reasoned: "The importance of the present and all future elections in Germany is whether they will have significant effect. The elected government will have to stand an internal conflict—political test—without Allied supervision and support."

Then, if it survives, he deduced, the Germans will have a democracy. He firmly believes that, until all democratic machinery and innovations which M.G. supported in Germany have been pitted against anti-democratic forces, no one can truly evaluate democracy in Germany.

Less Pushing Around

(From The Halifax Chronicle-Herald)

J. B. PRIESTLEY has launched a campaign against rude behaviour and distracting noise. His enemy is formidable, Heaven knows, but one can at least admire his courage.

Mr. Priestley refers to a ferry boat between Portsmouth Harbor and Ryde Pier which lacks sufficient gangplanks to disembark her passengers easily. Moreover, the gangplanks used are narrow which makes it difficult for passengers carrying luggage to walk briskly.

"But," says Mr. Priestley, "loud voices, sometimes coming out of loud-speakers, bellow at us to 'Come along! Hurry along!' as if it were our fault that the arrangements to transfer us from ship to pier were inadequate. And I think something like this happens in many other places besides Ryde Pier."

Assuredly it does happen in many other places, Mr. Priestley. There are many of us on this side of the ocean who can testify to that. We have been pushed along by querulous voices coming through loudspeakers in bus terminals, railway stations, and other public places. And that same impatient suggestion that the inadequate arrangements are the patrons' fault is evident over here, too.

The surprising thing is that we stand for it. Mr. Priestley wonders if it isn't time some people recognize that the human ear is a delicate instrument, easily outraged, together with the mind that uses it. Whether they recognize it or not, they assault our ears and our minds with raucous voices prodding and shoving us this way and that, to say nothing of adding to the hideous din which is too common a part of our existence.

It is really a double menace—the menace of irritating noise and of irritating bossiness. For the bossiness can be galling even when the noise is lacking. Some of the ushers in movie theatres excel in irritating without noise. Simply by herding the patrons like so many sheep they can achieve a nice measure of implied contempt which is thoroughly exasperating.

It is the more exasperating when they give their orders to the paying customers in that strong speech form, the Participial Imperative (used almost exclusively in movie theatres): "Passing up the stairs, please!"

And so we have the two forms of herding: The brassy, inhuman voice of the loudspeaker and the quieter implied contempt of the ill-trained. Both are extremely objectionable—and many of us, like you, Mr. Priestley, are getting tired of being pushed around.

It should be a reasonably safe speed, unless some other reckless snail whizzes past at 25 inches per hour and tries to crowd him into a crack in the pavement. . . . Looking Back

Through Colonist Files

25 YEARS AGO—The City Council has instructed its delegates to the convention of the Good Roads League to press for construction of a road on the West Coast of the Island.

50 YEARS AGO—The wheels of business and professional life in the city stopped for two hours yesterday while efforts were being made to capture a monkey that had escaped from the exhibition on Government Street.

85 YEARS AGO—Reports continue to reach the city of good diggings having been struck to the westward of Sooke, and many miners are moving in that direction.

Sir,—My wife and I are very much interested in your articles on Victoria history, particularly as we are newcomers to the Coast.

The article on Sir Matthew Begbie and his home we sent on to an old-timer, and believing that his reply may be of interest to your readers, we pass it on.

"My dear Powell,—"

"I appreciate your sending me The Colonist Magazine, giving the historical events of Sir Matthew Begbie's life. It certainly was of interest to me and my old dad, who was a very close friend of his."

"In my young days I used to help his gardener with the preparation of the Saturday tennis parties, and I recall with pleasure every nook and corner of his beautiful home."

"Sir Matthew was quite a good shot, he and his gardener (Charlie Berryman) used to go out on a Friday morning and hunt snipe (Wilson snipe) on the marsh on Cook Street, not far from his place, towards Beacon Hill."

"He kept a kennel of purebred Gordon setters, which he always prized, they did his retrieving at the hunt."

"I might mention the success of the Friday hunt was for the purpose of his Saturday evening dinner party, consisting of those mentioned in the paper together with my old dad, Pooley, and Admiral of the Fleet, when they are at anchorage at Esquimalt."

DEAD HERRING

Sir,—I read with interest in The Colonist details of a mass death of herring surrounded by red substance, which to all appearance was the poison which killed them, and which even the seagulls understood to be the cause of death, as they would not eat the dead fish. If there is an aluminum plant anywhere near to Mud Bay, in Chatham Sound, I think this may explain the mystery, together with Winter's melting ice and snow, this Spring weather. Personally I have seen the red residue water, as it came from an aluminum plant in Scotland, where it contaminated even the sea tide waters, making it all red in color, although enclosed within pools of fresh water nearby.

As the fishing industry in Canada is only now beginning to develop, it should be well protected, for it may yet be one of our largest industrial, natural resources of food value and untold wealth.

If future generations ask for food, will you give them metal to eat, or money to chew? Fish can and may yet become the world's great human food resource. Why gamble with it or fail to protect it?

From "Dejection"

There was a time when, though my path was rough,

This joy within me dallied with distress.

And all misfortunes were but as the stuff

Whence Fancy made me dreams of happiness:

For hope grew round me, like the turning vine

And fruits, and foliage, not my own, seemed mine.

But now afflictions bow me down to earth:

Nor care I that they rob me of my mirth;

But oh! each visitation

Suspends what nature gave me at my birth.

My shaping spirit of Imagination

For not to think of what I needs must feel.

But to be still and patient, all I can:

And haply by abstemious research to steal

From my own nature all the natural man—

This was my sole resource, my only plan:

Till that which suits a part infects the whole.

And now is almost grown the habit of my soul.

Court Rules Flying Club Must Pay Tax on Profit

OTTAWA, Aug. 25 (CP)—Mr. Justice E. R. Angers of the Exchequer Court ruled today that civilian flying clubs are subject to income tax on profits made and paid out in the form of dividends to shareholders when the clubs are liquidated.

The judgment was rendered in a case in which the Moose Jaw, Sask., flying club appealed against income tax assessments for 1940 and 1941. The assessments, made in 1947, five years after the club had wound up business, were on profits of $1,319 in 1940 and of $7,266 in 1941.

While the club operated, no dividends were declared and none was paid to shareholders. It claimed itself as a non-profit organization and paid no income tax.

When the club decided to cease operations, the Executive and Administrators Trust Company Limited was appointed liquidators to wind up the affairs of the club. The company appointed H. H. Bamford, whose hometown was not tax assessor that the flying club was not subject to income tax.

On the basis of Mr. Bamford's report, the company went ahead and distributed the club's assets. They consisted of $2,130 in paid-up capital and $11,804 on deposit in the bank. The paid-up capital represented shares at $10 each. The liquidating company paid out about $51 on each $10 share.

Evidence indicated that as a result of correspondence between the Regina income tax office and headquarters in Ottawa, a decision was reached later that the flying club was subject to income tax.

The liquidating company argued that if there was any income tax to be paid it should be paid by those to whom the assets of the flying club had been paid.

Critics Assert Help to Europe Produces Little Lasting Effect

STRASBOURG, France, Aug. 25 (AP)—Criticism that Marshall Plan aid is producing little permanent effect on Europe's economy yesterday marked the windup of the European Consultative Assembly's economic debate.

Conservatives, Socialists and middle-roads predicted without contradiction that Europe is in for economic chaos, social upheavals and even war if she cannot achieve economic unity before the Recovery Program ends in 1952.

United States aid has been commended in the Assembly as generous and wise, but some speakers blamed the countries receiving aid for not taking adequate measures to speed their own recovery, and for not submerging national differences in behalf of Europe's welfare.

A resolution introduced by Winston Churchill's European Movement said that "unless immediate steps are taken to promote a European economic union there must inevitably be a European economic collapse, involving a catastrophic decline in the standard of living of the European peoples and social disturbances endangering their democratic way of life."

British Government delegates, however, advised a no-slow policy. They said an economic union, stripping tariff protection from some industries, would create widespread unemployment.

Recovery Rate Slacking

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25 (AP)—The Economic Co-operation Administration today reported a slackening in the rate of European recovery.

In a sober report on its first year's operations, the agency said the dollars earned by the countries of Europe during the period were enough to pay for only one-fifth of their imports from the Western hemisphere.

The report noted that Congress had set up three aims when it authorized the European recovery project: boosting production, stabilizing currencies and stimulating trade among the participating countries.

Churchill Said Suffering Cold

NICE, France, Aug. 25 (AP)—Winston Churchill is suffering from a cold caught while taking a dip in the Mediterranean, his secretary said today.

Although earlier reports said the wartime prime minister was bed-ridden, they apparently stemmed from the fact that it was early in the morning and Churchill does not arise early.

A police inspector guarding the villa told reporters he had seen Churchill walking around later in the morning.

Expert Foresees Modification Of System of Growing Grain

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Aug. 25 (CP)—A leading Canadian agriculturalist today told food experts of the world that Western Canada's grain industry may have to be modified.

Dr. E. S. Archibald, director of the Dominion's Experimental Farm Service, said grain growing may have to be replaced by a "grain-grass and legume sequence."

TO ENRICH SOIL
"Grass would be left down period in order to replace lost organic matter," Archibald said in a paper before an agriculture section meeting at the United Nations scientific conference on the conservation and utilization of resources.

He said grain farming on the Prairies, confined almost exclusively to cereals, has been maintained "fairly satisfactorily." This has been done, he said, by technical advances in controlling wind erosion, plant disease, insect pests, and better crop varieties.

In a paper on cropping systems as an aid to sustained production, Archibald added:

"The grain industry in Western Canada, however, is relatively young, and there are indications that the prevailing cropping system may eventually have to be modified to include grass and legume cultivation."

Crash Deaths Stand at 20

WINNIPEG, Man., Aug. 25 (INR)—The bodies of 12 of the 13 white victims who perished Sunday night when a Canco plane crashed in Northern Manitoba, 272 miles from Winnipeg, were in Winnipeg today.

The bodies were flown to the Canadian city while a court of inquiry probing the tragedy was expected to visit the crash scene.

The body of a 13th white victim still was pinned in the wreckage of the big plane.

Royal Canadian Air Force officials, meanwhile, revised to 20 the number of dead from an earlier figure of 21. It was discovered that only eight Eskimos were aboard the plane. All were suffering from poliomyelitis.

Three children, all girls, the oldest 15, were among the Eskimos killed. The bodies of the Eskimos were taken to Norway House, nearest settlement to the crash scene. From there they will be flown back to their Arctic homes.

Navy Strength At Target Minister Says

OTTAWA, Aug. 24—Figures disclosing the overall strength of the active and reserve forces of the armed services were released today by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton.

Mr. Claxton stated that the Royal Canadian Navy has reached its presently planned complement of 9,947 in the permanent force but is continuing to recruit to take care of normal wastage incurred through monthly retirements and discharges. The R.C.N. reserve had recruited 4,278 officers and men by June 30.

The Canadian Army active force, with a present establishment of 23,034 had a total strength of 19,522 on June 30, while the reserve force numbered 37,794.

The R.C.A.F. was within 3,000 of the 18,278 establishment with a strength of 15,358 officers and men on June 30. On that date, too, the R.C.A.F. had 3,031 personnel on active reserve units.

Mr. Claxton pointed out that the active full time forces now totaled 43,927 for the three services, or 87 per cent of their present establishments.

Over the six-month period from January to June of this year, recruiting has progressed briskly for all three services, with the navy averaging 248 recruits per month, the army 424, and the R.C.A.F. 306.

Plane Designer J. W. Dunne Dies

BANBURY, Essex, England, Aug. 25 (CP)—John W. Dunne, 73, designer of Britain's first military airplane in 1906, died last night.

Dunne also gained considerable renown with his theory of "seriation"—developed in several books by an elaborate mathematical argument—that future events are regularly foreseen in dreams.

Dunne became known as "the man who plays with time" because of two books he wrote to develop his theory of "seriation."

High Positions Open To Women of India Now

WINNIPEG, Aug. 25 (C.P.)—An all-women's conference plays a large part in India's political and economic life, and there "everything is open to women—they do not have to struggle or fight for it," says Miss Irene Singh of Jodhpur, Northwest India.

"The ambassador from India to the United States is a woman, and Miss Singh has returned to the United States to register for her second year at Syracuse University where she is studying Journalism. She is there on a scholarship.

She is a graduate of the Gita High School in Indore, and received her bachelor's degree in arts from Isabella Thoburn College and her master's degree from St. John's College, Agra.

Miss Singh is in Canada under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church. She has been giving leadership talks to Canadian girls in Training groups.

"There are a great many women's organizations and clubs in India," she said in an interview here. "In the larger cities, women are part of the business life. The nursing profession, which was considered inferior about 20 years ago, now is considered one of the noblest professions. Medicine has always interested women. It is a popular field for the women of India."

She is a daughter of a former vice-president of the Christian College at Indore. Upon her return to India she will be on the editorial staff of the National Christian Council and also the editor of The Christian Home Bulletin.

"I enjoyed myself so much at the C.G.I.T. camps," she said. "I never felt any different from the other girls. They considered me one of the group."

Miss Singh speaks perfect English, the language spoken in her home in India.

She ended the interview with: "It's lovely in Canada, but isn't it very hot?"

Fall Skirts to Be Shorter Is Latest Fashion Decree

By The Canadian Press

Skirts will be slightly shorter this Autumn, with the padded hips and square shoulders of last season's revived Gibson Girl designs yielding place to more feminine styles with rounded shoulders and soft draping.

A Canadian Press cross-Canada survey today found merchants preparing to give the Canadian woman a trim look, eliminating the alphonse and flattening the figure. In general, prices will be about the same as last year.

From styles about to go on display, the tent-like skirts of the last two seasons have virtually disappeared. Controlled fullness is the watchword now, calling for flying panels and soft draping. Almost everywhere, hems will be 13 to 14 inches from the ground, making the skirts an inch or two shorter than last year.

Styles generally avoid extremes, although necklines still plunge deeply. Ankle-length semi-evening dresses are due to appear in Montreal. Camel's hair this season has become a color.

The new femininity appears also in suits, which this Fall will be subtly tailored with touches of lace, lace and velvet. Vancouver merchants predict that girls this season will be more self-conscious than ever before. Montreal stylists have designed a blouse-back suit in taupe or a warm brown shade called calesche.

Rich distinctive colors are promised for dresses. They will include a ruby-rich wine shade, maple leaf red, caribou taupe, margarine green, Newfoundland blue, prairie brown, Pacific red. The browns are numerous and beautiful. Reds range from scarlet through garnet and plum. The box style of coat, full cut with no belt, has returned to Ottawa stores after dropping out for nearly six years. Shoppers are displaying a variety of this type in wine, brown, green and tweed at prices ranging from $40 to $70. Dressy coats with wide silver fox-trimmed collars also have returned to the Capital.

Toronto will see the Princess Elizabeth style coat, with full back wide hemline and a small fur collar. The coat can be worn belted, or unbelted.

Hat designers have turned back to the days following the First World War to find inspiration for a bonnet-type hat, a neat creation brightened, in many cases, with velvet brocade and beading. At the other end of the scale are big, French-style hats set off with plumes and veiling.

Open-toed shoes with high heels, still holding their own at the footwear counters, are expected to retain their popularity this Autumn although plain pumps also may be much in evidence. Some retailers plan to display matching combinations of shoes and handbags.

Pleated, sheer undergarments will go with the slim silhouettes. Stockings may appear in darker shades. Some new ideas in belts for coats and dresses can be expected. Small corsets or girdles will be adaptable to many types of costumes.

TREMORS RECORDED

Earth tremors are still being recorded at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory, Little Saanich Mountain, it was reported yesterday.

The latest record covering a 24-hour period up to 10 a.m. yesterday showed an additional six earth shocks. Three were classified as "weak" and the remainder are just "slight," officials reported.

Only the first three were related to Sunday's earthquake and the latter three were probably local.

Keel Laid in Scotland For New Coastal Ship

Marine News

Summer of 1951 will see another new coastal passenger ship operating on the British Columbia coast under the houseflag of the C.P.R.

Capt. O. J. Williams, manager of the B.C. Coast Steamship Service, reports the keel for the company's new 6,000-ton, 14,000-horsepower Nanaimo-Vancouver vessel has been laid in Scotland.

The new ship will be of unique design and will probably be the first ship anywhere specially designed to carry automobiles on two decks. She will carry a total of 130 cars and passenger capacity will be for 1,500 persons.

ANOTHER PRINCESS

Although no name has been set for the new ship, she will become another "Princess," and will probably carry the name of some former C.P.R. vessel which operated on this coast.

D. B. Prentice, who superintended construction of the new Princesses Patricia and Marguerite, will leave this city sometime next week for Scotland to assume a similar responsibility with the new steamer. The new ship is scheduled for completion around March of 1951.

A local crew will be sent over to bring her to this coast in time for Summer travel of that year.

City Officer Appointed

Cmdr. Dudley G. King, R.C.N., of Victoria, has been appointed Chief of Staff to the Flag Officer Pacific Coast, Naval Headquarters announced yesterday. He recently completed a course at the National Defence College, Kingston.

Cmdr. King will assume his new duties September 7 and will succeed Cmdr. Harry Kingsley of Vancouver who has held the Chief of Staff post on a temporary basis for the past several months.

Originally from the Okanagan Valley, Cmdr. King was living in this city when he entered the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve (Fishermen's Reserve) in October, 1935. He spent some time in the armed yacht Sana Pour and the minesweeper Armentieres before joining the Naval Examination Service at Esquimalt late in 1940.

SEVERAL VESSELS

Vessels in which Cmdr. King has been in command include the corvette Arvita, the frigate Stettler and the depot vessel H.M.C.S. Provider.

We went to Naval Headquarters early in 1947 and took up duties as deputy director of naval reserves, a post he held until his course at the National Defence College in November of last year.

EXCURSIONISTS DUE

Miles, local agent for the shipping line, reports the ship will arrive at 1:15 p.m. and tie up at the Inner Harbor docks of the C.P.R. The ship will leave this port at 5:30 p.m. Time is daylight saving.

Labor Body Carries Protest

On Board Rulings to Minister

The British Columbia Federation of Labor (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) yesterday afternoon carried its protest against recent interpretations of union jurisdiction by the British Columbia Labor Relations Board to Labor Minister John Cates.

Mr. Cates granted a six-man delegation, headed by federation secretary George Home of Vancouver, a hearing lasting more than an hour. The gist of the union presentation was that, despite assurances to the contrary, the Labor Relations Board is attempting to determine union jurisdiction.

BASIS OF PROTEST

The C.C.L. union leaders based their protest mainly on the recent refusal of the board to certify the C.C.L. Amalgamated Building and Construction Workers for a group of 31 cookhouse workers employed by the B.C. Bridge & Dredging Co. Ltd. at Nanaimo.

Accompanying the board's notice of refusal was a brief expressing the board's opinions regarding union jurisdiction in general.

The brief termed "jurisdiction" the "exclusive privilege of a union." But, noting that six other unions had been certified as bargaining agents for other workers employed by the Nanaimo firm, it held that the C.C.L. union, if certified, "for the cookhouse staff alone," could not, "by any stretch of the imagination, fulfill its real purpose as an industrial union."

The federation delegation contended that only time could tell

ONTARIO TO DOCK

The cruiser H.M.C.S. Ontario will complete her fifth training cruise of the summer this morning when she docks at her Esquimalt jetty. This cruise took her as far south as Monterey, Calif. The cruiser carries a number of reservists.

She will sail again September 13 with the destroyer H.M.C.S. Crescent for exercises at sea and will return to the local naval base September 21. September 30 she will leave for Vancouver, to remain there until October 5.

TO VISIT VICTORIA

The United States destroyer escort U.S.S. Brannon is scheduled to visit Victoria September 4 and 5 during a reserve training cruise. Mayor Percy George was informed yesterday.

The vessel is commanded by Lieut.-Cmdr. W. W. M. Jones, U.S.N.R.

Inquest Set

To Probe Death Of City Man

Inquest into the death of Thomas Jones, 34, of 1135 McKenzie Street, will be held at Chaplin's Funeral Chapel at 10 a.m. today. It was announced yesterday by Dr. E. C. Hart, coroner.

Jones was found slumped over the wheel of his car at 11 a.m. Wednesday after an accident at the intersection of Cormorant and Store

Police said Jones' car collided with a truck parked outside 1614 Store Street, veered farther south on Store Street and collided with a second truck driven by Joseph H. Galloway, 3651 Savannah Avenue.

Only apparent injury suffered by Jones was a cut over one eye and a second cut on his leg.

Kate Senior, a passenger who had been visiting with the Jones, was treated in Royal Jubilee Hospital for shock and abrasions. Jones was pronounced dead on arrival at hospital.

Ben Nicholas By Bruce Hutchison

By Bruce Hutchison

One of the many articles published in September's Reader's Digest now on sale at newsstands everywhere will be of interest to many Victorians who knew and loved Benjamin Charles Nicholas, a great newspaperman who passed away at his editorial desk in 1938.

Starting in 1900 as a cub reporter for The Victoria Daily Times, Ben Nicholas lived to become Editor of that Journal.

There was never a time that anyone could criticize the Editorial policy pursued by Mr. Nicholas and as Hutchison states in his article, his editorials were "learned and documentary pieces" and pungent with literary flavor and packed with history.

Readers of The Colonist will enjoy this fine article by Bruce Hutchison on a great Liberal who chose to remain a citizen of Victoria in spite of determined efforts to lure him to other cities and lands.

Spare time of past three months has been spent by John Garrard, 1319 Point Street, in making this 29-inch motor cruiser, demonstrated recently at Kiwanis Club wading pool in Beacon Hill Park. Model craft, made mostly of light Balsa wood, weighs about two and a half pounds complete, including its four flashlight cells. With R.C.N. diving war years, and now with the naval reserve, Mr. Garrard would like to meet others in city interested in building model boats, with a view to forming club. This winter he plans building 30-inch model destroyer.

Keel Laid in Scotland For New Coastal Ship

Marine News

Summer of 1951 will see another new coastal passenger ship operating on the British Columbia coast under the houseflag of the C.P.R.

Capt. O. J. Williams, manager of the B.C. Coast Steamship Service, reports the keel for the company's new 6,000-ton, $4,000,000 Nanaimo-Vancouver vessel has been laid in Scotland.

The new ship will be of unique design and will probably be the first ship anywhere specially designed to carry automobiles on two decks. She will carry a total of 130 cars and passenger capacity will be for 1,500 persons.

ANOTHER PRINCESS

Although no name has been set

for the new ship, she will become another "Princess," and will probably carry the name of some former C.P.R. vessel which operated on this coast.

D. B. Prentice, who superintended construction of the new Princesses Patricia and Marguerite, will leave this city sometime next week for Scotland to assume a similar responsibility with the new steamer. The new ship is scheduled for completion around March of 1951. A local crew will be sent over to bring her to this coast in time for summer travel of that year.

City Officer Appointed

Cmdr. Dudley G. King, R.C.N., of Victoria, has been appointed Chief of Staff to the Flag Officer Pacific Coast, Naval Headquarters announced yesterday. He recently completed a course at the National Defence College, Kingston.

Cmdr. King will assume his new duties September 1 and will succeed Cmdr. Harry Kingsley of Vancouver who has held the Chief of Staff post on a temporary basis for the past several months.

Originally from the Okanagan Valley, Cmdr. King was living in this city when he entered the Royal Canadian Naval Reserve (Fishermen's Reserve) in October, 1939. He spent some time in the armed yacht Sana Feur and the minesweeper Armentieres before joining the Naval Examination Service at Esquimalt late in 1940.

SEVERAL VESSELS

Vessels in which Cmdr. King has been in command include the corvette Arvida, the frigate Stettler and the depot vessel H.M.C.S. Provider.

He went to Naval Headquarters early in 1947 and took up duties as deputy director of naval reserves, a post he held until his course at the National Defence College in November of last year.

EXCURSIONISTS DUE

Ms. Lady Alexandra, of the Union Steamship Co., will arrive here early this afternoon with between 600 and 700 excursionists from White Rock. Walter S. Miles, local agent for the shipping line, reports the ship will arrive at 1:15 p.m. and tie up at the Inner Harbor docks of the C.P.R. The ship will leave this port at 5:30 p.m. Times are daylight saving.

Labor Body Carries Protest On Board Rulings to Minister

The British Columbia Federation of Labor (C.B.F.L.) yesterday afternoon carried its protest against recent interpretations of union jurisdiction by the British Columbia Labor Relations Board to Labor Minister John Cates.

Mr. Cates granted a six-man delegation, headed by federation secretary George Home of Vancouver, a hearing lasting more than an hour. The gist of the union presentation was that, despite assurances to the contrary, the Labor Relations Board is attempting to determine union jurisdiction.

BASIS OF PROTEST

The C.B.F.L. union leaders used their protest mainly on the recent refusal of the board to certify the C.C.L. Amalgamated Building and Construction Workers for a group of 31 cookhouse workers employed by the B.C. Bridge & Dredging Co. Ltd. at Nanaimo.

Accompanying the board's notice of refusal was a brief expressing the board's opinions regarding union jurisdiction in general. The brief termed "jurisdiction" the "exclusive privilege of a union."

But, noting that six other unions had been certified as bargaining agents for other workers employed by the Nanaimo firm, it held that the C.C.L. union, if certifying "for the cookhouse staff alone," could not, "by any stretch of the imagination, fulfill its real purpose as an industrial union."

The federation delegation contended that only time could tell whether or not the C.C.L. union could "fulfill its purpose as an industrial union."

"The board is assuming rights belonging to the Minister of Labor," Mr. Home declared after the hearing.

"If the decision stands, it is a threat to all Canadian unions," Delegate Pen Baskin, president of the Vancouver Labor Council, said the federation protest was based on the "general principles in the contract, the Labor Relations Board" as much as on the Nanaimo incident.

"The board is throwing its weight on the side of one labor organization against the other," he said.

Other members of the delegation included Robert Smeal, president of the Victoria Labor Council; Jim Bury, secretary of the Vancouver Labor Council; Dan Radford, British Columbia regional director of the C.C.L.; and Jack Lucas, president of the Amalgamated Building Workers.

The delegation asked Mr. Cates to assist in the calling of a meeting next month of the whole cabinet to discuss the issue.

CALL CONFERENCE

The executive of the federation has called a delegates' conference to discuss the actions of the board September 11 in Vancouver.

Mr. Cates declined to comment on the protests other than to promise that they would be studied thoroughly.

REQUEST TO MAYOR

Mayor George was asked yesterday to present an address of welcome to the Archbishop of York on his arrival in Victoria on Saturday, October 1.

The invitation was extended by Bishop Harold E. Sexton in a letter received yesterday by Mayor George. Bishop Sexton stated that the Archbishop of York was scheduled to arrive at the Patricia Bay airport at 5:30 p.m. on October 1.

ONTARIO TO DOCK

The cruiser H.M.C.S. Ontario will complete her fifth training cruise of the summer this morning when she docks at her Esquimalt jetty. This cruise took her as far south as Monterey, Calif. The cruiser carries a number of reservists.

She will sail again September 12 with the destroyer H.M.C.S. Crescent for exercises at sea and will return to the local naval base September 21. September 30 she will leave for Vancouver, to remain there until October 5.

TO VISIT VICTORIA

The United States destroyer escort U.S.S. Brannon is scheduled to visit Victoria September 4 and 5 during a reserve training cruise. Mayday Percy George was informed yesterday.

The vessel is commanded by Lieut.-Cmdr. W. W. M. Jones, U.S.N.R.

conducted at the marine slipway of Wilby's Machine Shop, where the vessel was taken shortly after the explosion.

Insurance Adjuster R. B. Crombie has confirmed a strong belief of those who saw the boat shortly after the mishap that she was beyond repair.

Owner Mike Williams left for Upland soon after his vessel almost submerged, apparently in an attempt to continue fishing. He had been on the tuna grounds prior to coming here to unload fish and take on fuel.

SALMON CATCH GAINS

For the first time this season the salmon catch of British Columbia has passed the corresponding mark of last year. To date, reports the chief supervisor of fisheries, the pack totals 735,402 cases.

At the same time last year this total was 716,493 cases. The totals cover commercial fishing districts Nos. 1, 2 and 3. Each case weighs 48 pounds.

Greatest catches have been made of pinkie, the total pack of this species now being more than 300,375 cases. More than 244,123 cases of sockeye have been packed to date.

Little Stories for Bedtime

BILLY MINK AND LITTLE JOE OTTER DECIDE TO GO VISITING

After visiting the Smiling Pool and warning Little Joe Otter and Jerry Muskrat to watch out for traps, Bobby Coon decided that the Laughing Brook was altogether too dangerous a place for him, so he turned back into the Green Forest and firmly resolved to keep away from the Laughing Brook. Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter talked things over.

"I found three traps," said Billy Mink. "There may be some I have not found. Anyway, it is dangerous."

That when that trapper finds that I know about those traps, he will set some more. I don't believe he is smart enough to hide a trap so

"I believe I'll go away for a visit," that we cannot find it. But, you know, accidents will happen. He knows that you and I make our homes along the Laughing Brook and he will simply make life miserable for us by continuing to set traps. Do you know what I believe I'll do?"

"What?"

"I believe I'll go away for a visit," replied Billy Mink. "I've been feeling rather restless for some time, anyway, and there isn't any better time of year to go visiting than right now. There's a certain brook some distance from here that for a long time I've been thinking of visiting. I believe I'll start tonight, and I'll stay long enough for this trapper to get tired of setting traps and catching nothing."

"That's a good idea," said Little Joe Otter. "I believe I'll go visiting myself. I always did like to travel. There is no sense in taking foolish risks, and that is just what we would be doing by staying here. I think I'll go down to the Big River and stay awhile. The fishing here isn't as good as it might be, anyway. I wonder if Jerry Muskrat will go visiting, too. Let's tell him what we are going to do and see if he wants to go along with one of us."

Body Needs Water in Health or Sickness

"He can't go with me," declared Billy Mink in a most decided tone. "He travels too slowly. I don't believe that he would want to go with me anyway, because, between you and me, I suspect Jerry is a little afraid of me."

Little Joe Otter grinned. "I guess he has reason to be," said he. "I've been told that the Mink family has a liking for muskrat meat. I hardly think he'd want to go along with me, either, because he is such a home-loving body. But, anyway, we'll tell him what we're going to do and see if he can go with us or not."

So Billy Mink and Little Joe Otter told Jerry how they were going to fool the trapper by going visiting. They urged him to do the same thing.

At the Theatres

ROYAL James Stewart and THEATRE June Allyson are co-starring for the first time in "The Stratton Story," stirring drama based on the spectacular career of Monty Stratton, former big league baseball figure, Frank Morgan, Agnes Moorehead and Bill Williams are others in the new M-G-M offering, now showing at the Royal Theatre.

PLAZA "The Way to the Stars" with an all-star cast is the feature attraction of an entertainment that will hold the attention of all.

ODEON John Huston's "We Were Strangers," powerful Columbia drama of violence and intrigue set in the locale of the seething city of Havana, is now showing at the Odeon Theatre. The impressive cast is headed by Jennifer Jones, John Garfield and Pedro Armendariz, with Gilbert Roland, Ramon Novarro, Wally Cassell and David Bond lending support to the stars.

DOMINION Handsome and virile, THEATRE Forrest Tucker is just what the feminine film fans ordered. Tucker does a slight switch on his usual badman type of role in his current Trucolor outdoor film, Republic's "Hellfire," which is William Elliott's first effort at production and which is now playing at the Dominion Theatre. Forrest plays a United States marshal in this one, but he is no less hard-hitting or fast-shooting than in his previous Western adventure films.

ATLAS Sheppard Sturdivant and THEATRE John McGuire, playing together for the first time in Warner Bros.' thrill-packed Technicolor film, "Fighter Squadron," roomed together as student naval officers at Princeton in 1941. The two actors portray high-ranking army officers in the Technicolor saga of the Army Air Forces starring Edmund O'Brien and Robert Stack.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 (AP)—The Stock Market advanced today with all the caution of a man juggling a dozen eggs.

Gains were small, only a few running to a point or more. Demand was never more than lukewarm and the price improvement resulted as much from limited offerings of stock as anything else.

Dinner at Antoine's

By FRANCES PARKINSON KEYES

"Leonce, please turn this car around. I want to go home after all."

"You don't really want to, honey," he said easily. "That's just a passing whim. In a minute you'll have another."

"No, I won't. Because it isn't a whim. It's a resolution."

His movement was gone now and his tolerance. He took his eyes from the road to glare at her in sudden fury.

"Leonce! Watch out!"

Too late he saw the heavy van and the whipping red markers, set out to warn approaching vehicles that it was stalled. Carrese was still screaming when the car slid crazily sideways into the heavy corrugated housing of the parked truck.

In a gingerly way, Leonce picked himself off the road, vaguely surprised to find that he could move without difficulty or even discomfort. As he rose, he saw Carrese, her lips and chin hidden by a wadded red cloth. Again he felt the thump and tug of inner recoil, until he realized that this was a not due to blood.

"Are you all right?" he asked.

She nodded, mumbling. His facilities were clearing, and he turned to the truck driver.

"I can't tell you how sorry I am this happened, old man," he said.

"You better let the young lady drive into town. You ain't fit to be at the wheel of no car," growled the driver.

"But the damage . . ."

"Ah, there ain't all that much damage. Ten bucks to one of the boys at the refrigeration plant to take the dents out of the back housing where you hit ought to fix it."

Leonce brought out a cordovan wallet from his hip pocket, ran a finger back along its upper edge, and then looked towards Carrese.

"I'm dreadfully sorry, there," he said. "But—but I don't seem to have more than about six dollars and a little change with me. Could you—that is, if you'll be good enough—"

Dudainfully Carrese passed him her smart afternoon bag.

She did not speak to him when he climbed into the car beside her. For some moments they rode along in defensive silence. At last Carrese asked a scornful question:

"Did you have some brilliant idea for our next place of action?"

"I don't quite follow you about a plan of action."

"Well, after all, we both came downtown in family cars. If we go home separately, someone's sure to ask us how we happened to get banged up in pretty much the same way."

"I suppose you're right. Any suggestions?"

"Nice if you to ask. I don't think it's going to be too easy to keep all together in the clear, whatever we do. But I think maybe the best plan would be to take this beat-up wreck back to Volain-Caprelli's first. While you're telling any kind of a story you can dream up, I'll go to the parking lot and get my car. Then I'll come back for you. When we get home you can say that you had engine trouble on your way to the agency this morning so you left your car in the shop for repairs and telephoned me at the broadcasting station, asking for a lift. It was such a pretty day we took a drive in the country."

"It doesn't sound too good, but it might get by."

Amelle was coming down the stairs. In contrast to Tossie she was comparatively calm. Unlike the old servant, she did notice that something was amiss in the appearance of her daughter and her son-in-law. However, it obviously caused her only passing curiosity and no concern.

"Have you two been in some kind of accident?" she inquired. "Well, it's a good thing the doctor is here—he can patch you both up . . ."

As Tossie seems to have been telling you, Odette, I'm afraid almost to death. He refused to leave the house until Vance got here and gave an opinion. Vance reassured him—said all she needed was complete rest and he'd see that she got it. He's given her a strong sedative and is going to stay with her until he's sure that it's taken effect. Then he'll come back again, around midnight, to check on her condition. Meanwhile, of course, he doesn't want her disturbed. If Leonce or anyone else went barging in on her now—that would undo all the good work of the sedative."

"Hit ain't no medicine she need," Tossie broke in, scornfully. "Hit be her comfort. Effen none of her kinnery gwine to her, ah hi!"

She charged toward the rear of the hall. Leonce caught her by the shoulder, roughly pulling her back.

"Don't you try to go another step," he said. "Listen! If Miss Odette were still mourning you could hear her. If you'd only keep still yourself. And there isn't a sound."

Leonce was right. The moaning had ceased. The heavy silence of the house engulfed them all.

HOW RELIGIOUS EXPERIENCE CAN HELP YOU

Despite modern skepticism, prayer is still the greatest known force for grappling with your everyday problems, says Norman Vincent Peale. In September Reader's Digest, now on newsstands, he proves it with some amazing examples—gives simple rules for effective religious experience. Don't miss this inspiring article in the new Reader's Digest.

The treasure of Great Bear Lake. Day after day the lone man crept over the frozen Canadian Arctic, led on by a dream that this wilderness contained rare pitchblende. Inspiring story of how Gilbert LaRue's courage and imagination gave Canada a fabulous source of uranium at a crucial moment in the world's history.

Enjoy yourself—it's later than you think. The end of this Billy Rose story may jolt you. We'll really tell you that: here's a lot, too human, tale about two Canadian sisters—adventurous Louise who wanted to see the world while she could; and cautious Miriam (who always had a reason for not going "just now").

Should your wife be fired? Most housewives could do their work better with a third less effort—says this industrial efficiency expert. He gives examples of how women can save time and energy (making beds, coffee, baking, doing dishes, etc.). . . . gives 4 steps to win a woman a couple of free hours a day.

And more than 30 other articles of lasting interest, from leading magazines and current books, condensed to save you time. For instance:

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

"YOU CAN'T SQUEEZE BLOOD OUT OF A STONE"

"For who'll wrest water from a flinty stone?"

When the poet, John Weever, who died in the year 1632, wrote that line in his "Epigrammes," the metaphor may have sounded new; also the allusion of a contemporary to getting water out of a flint.

By way of variety, Frederick Maryat, the English naval captain turned novelist wrote in the 19th century, "There's no getting blood out of a turnip." And ever since men on the land have put it this way, as if the figure of speech were their own.

Yet the idea behind the maxim in all its forms goes back to the source of so much that is modern in idea and expression—to classical antiquity. It seems to be Plautus, the dramatist whose comedies delighted Romans in the 3rd century before Christ, who authored this saying that you can't squeeze blood out of a stone, as follows:

"You might as well seek water from a pumice stone, that's thirsty itself."

WHAT A "B.P.V.B."

Repair Work on Seawall Gets Under Way

Start on reconstruction of large portion of the Dallas Road seawall—which buckled and collapsed during heavy storm last winter—is now under way. Equipment of Victoria Pile Driving Ltd., seen in photo above, was at scene yesterday. Contract for repairs to wall was awarded to G. H. Wheaton, and pile driving operations will be done on sub-contract basis. Amount of contract was $52,000, and Provincial Government has agreed to share half cost up to $50,000. Additional funds will be earmarked next year by City Council for completion of reconstruction job.

Increased Government Financial Aid Sought by Royal Society of Canada

The Royal Society of Canada will today call on the Federal Government for large increases in direct financial aid in a national building program and in Government respect, paid to the prestige of the society itself.

Without this Government action the society will say in a brief presented to the Royal Commission on Arts and Sciences Development, the Royal Society and Canada in general will be severely handicapped in attempting even to mark time in scholarly and cultural fields.

The brief will be presented today by Dr. Joseph A. Pearce, Dominion Astrophysicist and president of the Royal Society. He is director of the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain.

FOUNDED IN 1882

The Royal Society, representative of the high fields of scholarship and learning in Canada, was founded in 1882 to encourage studies and investigations in literature and science, the brief, made public today, declares.

It points out that previous recommendations the society has made in the last half century have resulted in Government creation of Dominion archives, observatories, museum, National Research Council, national parks and many other Canadian institutions.

The brief shows that although the Canadian Royal Society is patterned after the original Royal Society (London) it has now to work in a much larger field at about one-seventh of the income.

PRESTIGE LOST

One result of this small income, the brief declares, is that many Canadian discoveries, through lack of funds for publishing, are related to the world through learned societies of other lands with consequent loss of prestige to Canada.

The society asks for Dominion establishment of an endowment fund sufficient to ensure an annual income of at least $30,000 from that source alone.

It also calls for headquarters of its own and asks Government to make a point of appointing Royal Society members as such to all boards or commissions having to do with science or humane learning. Tasks the society is unable to undertake because of lack of funds include establishment of local centres of the society at universities throughout Canada; the establishment of traveling lectureships and the financing of creative works now unpublished because of lack of funds.

NATIONAL LIBRARY

The society also urges: 1. Construction of a national library, a national art gallery, a national botanical garden and a new museum of archaeology, ethnology and natural science.

2. A wide program of scholarships in fields not covered by National Research Council scholarships; exchanges of Eastern and Western Canadian students, and $2,000,000 a year for establishment of university scholarships in Canada for students of foreign countries.

Founding, Growth of Vancouver Outlined in Talk to Rotarians

The city known as Vancouver has not always held that name. Since its inception as a community the place has been known as Victoria, Gastown and Granville.

C. W. McBain, land agent for the C.P.R., Vancouver, mentioned this interesting fact yesterday before a Rotary Club meeting at the Empress Hotel. In a prepared talk dealing with the founding and growth of Vancouver, he noted the important role which the C.P.R. had played in developing the Mainland city.

NAMED FOR EXPLORER

The city now bears the name of the famous British explorer, Capt. George Vancouver, and the city name was a direct suggestion of Van Horne. At the start of the city's history—when buildings were erected on pillars over water to avoid heavy forests—it was stated Vancouver would some day become the greatest metropolis and seaport of Canada.

"The city is well on its way to becoming just that," Mr. McBain said.

Pulp Market Slump at End; Plants Reopen

Indications were given this week that the slump in the pulp market may be over.

B.C. Pulp & Paper Company Ltd. announced that its Woodbire plant will start operation September 14 and the Port Alice plant will reopen October 2.

The two plants employ more than 1,000 men.

The third pulp plant closed this summer, the Borg mill at Port Mellon is not expected to reopen. It produces kraft pulp. The B.C. pulp plants produce rayon fibre.

HOPE FOR NEW MILL
Reopening of the plant brought renewed hope that a new pulp mill might be started in the Quenest area. The Provincial Government loaned $5,000,000 to the B.C. Power Commission for hydro-electric development at Quenest with the hope that a large pulp mill would be established there.

Closure of other mills in the Province, however, led residents of the Quenest area to think that a mill would not be built there for some time to come.

Texas City Takes "Cue" From Victoria

Victoria is rapidly becoming famous for its hanging flower baskets.

There's a slight catch to this news item, though. The city referred to this time is not the capital of British Columbia. It's Victoria, Texas.

About 18 months ago L. Morris, postmaster of the Texas city, was visiting here and along with thousands of other tourists, was greatly impressed with this city's hanging flower baskets.

TAKES ACTION
Returning to his own home in Victoria, Texas, Postmaster Morris carried his impression into action.

Today close to 30 lamp posts along four city blocks are decorated with floral baskets. They were established in memory of Mr. Morris' sister, who died several years ago.

This report was made yesterday at a Rotary Club luncheon by M. F. Carruth, visiting here from the Texas city.

Juveniles Blamed For Park Break-In
CITY police believe juveniles are responsible for breaking into the concessions at Royal Athletic Park on Wednesday night.

Investigating a report by Rom Williamson, caretaker, detectives found the doors had been jimmied. A few bottles of pop had been drunk, but nothing else appeared to be missing.

Coach Lines Seek Rise In Up-Island Bus Fares

Vancouver Island Coach Lines are seeking a 10 per cent fare boost on its Up-Island routes effective September 15.

Announcing yesterday that an application for the increase had been made to the Public Utilities Commission for approval, Harold Husband, general manager, said the company has sustained losses over the past eight months.

Wages had been maintained at a very high rate, he said, and all phases of operating expense, including parts, fuel and maintenance, has continued to rise.

REVIEW ACCOUNTS
Dr. W. A. Carrothers, P.U.C. chairman, said the firm of George A. Touche & Company had been appointed to review the company's accounts and statements. He predicted "some kind of action" on the application within two weeks.

In March last year the commission granted the Coach Lines an increase in general rates from 2½ to 3½ cents a mile and allowed elimination of special low week-end fares.

Mr. Husband said the proposed increase would not apply to urban routes in Saanich and Victoria; nor to the West Saanich and Sidney routes.

PLANNED ECONOMIES
He said the company had planned comprehensive economies in service over many island routes in an effort to achieve economy and efficiency.

"In March of this year," he continued, "when the 15 per cent Federal transportation tax was removed, we considered making application to have the tax absorbed into our fare structure as was done by other transportation companies in the Dominion, but we were loathe to apply for this increase until we had assured ourselves that our operating position could not be improved by other measures."

SUGGEST INCOME INCREASE
Suggestion of increasing the allowable income of an old-age pensioner by $120 a year to cover the increase started recently by the Federal Government was heard at a meeting of the Senior Citizens' Campaign Council.

After discussion, it was decided to turn the proposal over to the legislative committee for further study. The meeting also decided the means test of the Old Age Pension Act should be abolished.

$500 Damage In Accident
An accident on Esquimalt Road between Catherine and Alston Streets at 2:30 a.m., yesterday resulted in damage estimated at $500 according to city police.

Police reports said a car driven by Madeline Parker, 710 Fort Street, had been run off the road by a second car. The vehicle struck a telephone pole and guy-wire.

Expect Good Tye Catches

PORT ALBERNI, Aug. 25.—This week should see some good Tye catches. With a new moon and plenty of rain the fish that are now at Nahmint, about 14 miles down the canal, may start for their home waters of the Somass, Stamp and Sprout Rivers.

Fish caught to date are averaging 31.9 pounds per fish. High fish so far is 47½ pounds.

NANAIMO, Aug. 25.—Horace V. Bigwood and James W. Loucks each paid fines of $10 and court costs here today after being found guilty by Magistrate Lionel Beever-Potts of not exercising proper care when entering a communicating highway at the intersection of Macleary and Fitzwilliam streets on August 13.

Work to the Harbor Commission. A large number of officials will take part in the opening ceremonies. They include J. E. Kennedy, superintendent Pacific Piledriving Company that built the dock; Mayor L. K. Jordan of Port Alberni and Mayor Jack Hills of Alberni, members of the Chamber of Commerce, junior and senior, and the officials of the various stevedoring companies operating here.

The members of the Harbor Board are D. O'Brien, Thomas, Christie, Bryce Blake, secretary, T. Vrooman and Harbor Master Reese Riley.

Large Crowds Attend Opening Of Port Alberni Annual Fair

PORT ALBERNI, Aug. 25.—Port Alberni Annual Fair was officially opened Thursday night with sunny skies favoring large crowds visiting the fair.

The fair was opened by John B. Munro, deputy minister of agriculture for the Provincial Government. Assisting speakers were John L. Gibson, M.P.; Jim Mowatt, M.L.A.; Mayor L. K. Jordan, Port Alberni; Mayor Jack Hills, Alberni; G. L. Chatterton, regional supervisor of the V.L.A. The guests were welcomed by Cliff Leslie, president of the Fair Association, and Howard McLean for the Kinsmen.

LIST OF JUDGES

Judges for the show are: Flowers, Dr. C. T. Hilton and John Madelung; ladies' division, Mrs. T. W. Martindale, Nanaimo; judging canning and women's work, Mrs. T. Christie and Mrs. P. Kendall; domestic science, R. Rousseau Hobbles. Livestock were to be judged on Saturday by Dr. Gunn of the Provincial Government Agriculture Department; fruits and vegetables by Roy Wilkinson, Courtenay and H. P. Alberry, Comox.

The Alberni Fair Association, headed by Cliff Leslie, has every reason to be proud of the result of their long and untiring efforts to place the Alberni on the map and to show the many resources and possibilities of the valley as a place to work and live.

SCHOOL DISPLAYS

The association has not forgotten the cultural side of life and with close to $1,000,000 to be spent here on schools in the next year, school displays make up a large portion of the exhibits on educational lines.

The native children have not been forgotten either, and examples of drawing, painting and handicraft by the pupils of the West Coast Indian Residential School drew attention to the many skills so readily learned and adapted by the native population.

The fair will close on Saturday night with a tremendous display of fireworks that calls for outside experts to handle, and the drawing for a car.

There is every indication that within the next year or two the

Campbell River Planning Air Link to Mainland

CAMPBELL RIVER, Aug. 25.—This village may soon have a new fast air link with the Mainland. It was learned at a recent meeting of the commissioners.

Robert Langdon, of B.C. Airlines, suggested that the commissioners consider establishing a licensed municipal airplane base. The civic heads will endeavor to find a suitable location, it was reported.

Permission was granted the B.C. Telephone Co. to place telephone poles along Alder Street and Seventh Avenue in order that residents of that area can be supplied with telephone service.

WATER SYSTEM REPORT

James Haigh, Kinsmen representative on the parks committee, reported 269 connections have been made on the new water system with 181 to be connected in the next two weeks.

Many letters were received from various organizations in the district requesting that immediate action be taken regarding paving of the stretch of highway passing through the village.

The clerk was instructed to forward the letters to H. J. Welch, M.L.A., requesting that he take the matter up with the Minister of Public Works at once.
